Hampton Hang Gallery Presents:
STAND UP, Paintings and Installations by Charlotte Filbert
August 31 - September 19, 2013
Opening Reception: August 31st 6-8pm

Watermill, NY: Hampton Hang Gallery is pleased to announce, Stand Up, an exhibition of new works by Charlotte Filbert. Charlotte's painting is not about being an "artist". She paints the colors, layers, and complexities of her emotions. The visual language is simply a by-product of the process. Her work is not about arranging nouns and adjectives on a page. It's raw instinct and honesty. Charlotte works on numerous paintings simultaneously, jumping around each canvas one color at a time. As the process unfolds, the work reveals its form. Each completed piece, a colorful energetic almost mosaic vision, often touches on the idea of change.

Charlotte Filbert recent work, Stand Up, is a body of work which connotes change. Through a variety of mediums, Filbert encourages people to stand up at a time in our culture where drastic change is desperately needed on both a local and global scale. In the painting "Shiny, Happy People Holding Hands" Filbert uses a 21ft x 6 ft canvas to express human beings standing up and acting for causes they believe in. Two installations -- one involving a clawfoot tub, the other a skeleton skull series -- speak loudly to unjust environmental happenings.

Charlotte Filbert earned her B.A. from The College of Santa Fe. She has been published in numerous publications including Vanity Fair and House and Garden Magazine. Charlotte lives and paints in South Carolina and New York. Growing up in Maryland, Montana, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, New York, New Mexico and Rhode Island has been a great source of inspiration to Charlotte.

Charlotte Filbert and Hampton Hang Gallery are donating 20 percent of all sales from Stand Up to Restore NYC. Restore NYC's mission is to end sex trafficking in New York and restore the well-being and independence of foreign-national survivors.
